When it comes to the Clark County 4-H, Ann Schmidt is nothing shy of an expert

Ann Schmidt has had her hand in participating and helping with the program since she was in the third grade. She began participating in foods and clothing, arts and crafts and showing cattle.

Schmidt went on to help with 4-H as her children became eligible to participate. Her daughter Sara participated in foods and clothing and swine. Schmidt's son, Ryan, participated in foods, arts and crafts, cattle and swine.

Today, Schmidt is still participating, only now alongside her grandchildren, who are keeping the tradition alive and well. Sara Ebbers and her husband Jacob have two sons, Easton, seven, and Lawson, three, who are still too young to join 4-H, but are already preparing as they are participating as Peewees showing goats. The family lives in nearby Lake Norden.

Ryan Schmidt and his wife Amanda have four children, all of whom are participating on some level. Parker, 16, Lexie, 13 and Jackson, 11, all participate in food and clothing, photography and swine, while Ally, 8 will begin participating this fall and has been a Clover, showing rabbits and baking foods in preparation. The family lives in Raymond.

"With such busier lifestyles and many more activities outside of 4-H to participate in, numbers have gone down. That is one change over the years I wish wasn't," said Schmidt. "Change has also brought positives to 4-H, expanding the project areas that participants can choose to be a part of," she added.
